

ABSTRACT

A display case for watches is described comprising an armoured outer case and at least one transparent portion for enabling the vision of the watches from outside. The display case further comprises supports for the watches and movement means of the supports so as to provide a preset movement to the watches in order to maintain a charge state so as to prevent stoppage.

(Figure 1)